

GIRL CHIEF WITNESS AGAINST HER FATHER

Norma Cook Testifies in Chicago She Heard Threat Made to Kill Lover, William Bradway.

SMILES DURING TESTIMONY

Without Glance Toward Defendant Daughter Relates Details—Met Victim at Summer Garden.

CHICAGO, March 4.—Norma Cook, 14 years old, was the principal witness today against her father, J. W. Bradway, in his trial for the murder of William E. Bradway, the girl's godfather and admirer, who was gunned to death last summer. She submitted her testimony after having said that her father had threatened Bradway on cross examination she admitted Bradway had threatened her father.

The girl, who was only 12 years old at the time of the killing, testified without emotion at the time. She apparently did not tell her father, a younger brother, Mrs. Myrtle Jennings, that her father, Daniel Clegg, of Columbus, Kansas, sat among the prosecuting attorneys.

Vowed to Kill Bradway.

Assistant States Attorney James G. Neff, charged in his opening statement that Cook had vowed to avenge her father and went to the Bradway home in June, 1918, when Bradway was another boy dead in the house and finding creeps on the floor went away. Then on August 1, it was charged, Cook laid in wait, engaged in a scuffle with Bradway, shot him fatally.

The girl said Bradway had gone to Columbus, Kansas, last June and given a dinner party for her and spent a week at the Columbus hotel. It was during this time her father also appeared in Columbus.

She said he and she and another met in a play house after their home, which had been converted to a memorial to her grandfather. Asked if the prosecutor asked her father said, as to Bradway, she answered that Bradway had said he would "get him and that I would never see him again." She said Bradway had vowed to ward his always had been proper.

On cross examination the girl was asked by Attorney Everett Jennings, son of her father, what Bradway had once said to her about her father. She answered that Bradway had said:

"If your father ever dares to interfere between us, I will choke his tongue off."

Bradway At Garden.

On cross examination she testified she had met Bradway at a summer garden, that he afterward had sent her theater tickets and had taken her to a dinner party; that while she was in school she had met Bradway at lunch times and after school hours had gone to hotel tea rooms with him.

Later, she testified, Bradway several times a week took her to hotel tea rooms, cabarets and summer gardens.

"When did you study?" she was asked.

"I did not study very much," she answered.

Elmer D. Sweeney, a Michigan Central railroad flagman from Detroit, testified he saw the stabbing on the platform of the Union station and one man wore a dark suit and he afterward learned that that man was Bradway. The other, clad in a light suit, he identified as Cook.

TULSA CREDIT MEN WILL MEET AT FRIDAY LUNCHEON

On Friday of this week the first of a series of weekly luncheons will be given by the Associated Retail Credit Men of Tulsa. At a called meeting last week it was decided to hold the weekly luncheons in place of the regular monthly gatherings which have been held in the downtown.

L. S. Crowder, national executive secretary of the Retail Credit Men's national association, was a recent visitor to the local branch and through his aid 24 new members were added to the association, making a total of approximately fifty members for the local association, which is affiliated with the national. Mr. Crowder complimented the Tulsa credit managers on the progress made in their association since its organization only a year ago. He stated that he believed the work here has a big future and with the added cooperation which will be brought about by the additional members the Tulsa association will without doubt become a model organ for protecting its members from deadbeats and professional charlatans.

The luncheon will begin at 12:15 noon and the meeting will adjourn at 1:15 p. m. Local retail credit men who are not members, but who feel that they would receive some benefit from affiliation, are invited to attend. The price of the luncheon will be 50 cents per plate.

Frontiers of the New Poland

The map shows the boundaries of New Poland, including Posen, the territory recently acquired from Germany.

Under the terms of the new armistice, Germany has been forced to give undisputed possession to the Poles of most of Posen. The territory surrendered is shown in dark shading on the map.

The lighter shading shows approximately the territory claimed by Poland as a means of getting a seaport and defending it. Since cession of this strip will end ancient Prussia in two the Germans are contesting it and the allies have not yet granted the demand. South of Posen in Silesia the Poles and Czechs have conflicting claims, which an allied commission is now composing.

Paris dispatches have assumed that the Posen boundary now fixed will be made permanent by the peace treaty. If so, new Poland will be only ninety-five miles from Berlin.

The Invisible Conflict

From the moment of birth—and before—until the hour of death, there is going on within the body a constant conflict, unseen and usually unfelt, between forces that seek to defend, and others that strive to destroy.

Germs that enter from without are attacked and destroyed by the living guardians in the blood, the white blood cells or phagocytes. Poisons generated within seek entrance into the blood and are removed or destroyed by the functions of the intestines, liver and kidneys.

Food waste allowed to stagnate and remain in the intestines, unevacuated, poisons the blood and destroys its power to defend against outside or inside enemies. Such self-poisoning causes over 90% of human illness.

Constipation turns the tide of the invisible conflict against the body, in favor of the invaders. Nor does the taking of castor oil, pills, salts, mineral waters, etc., to force the bowels to move enable the body to defend itself. Not only will the constipation grow worse with the continuance of such remedies but the dose must be constantly increased with an ever-weakening effect.

On the other hand Nujol overcomes constipation and brings about the habit of easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals, because Nujol is not a drug, does not act like any drug. Nujol brings about a return to Nature's methods by supplying necessary lubrication of the bowel-contents, by facilitating intestinal muscular action, by absorbing poisons matter, and thus securing necessary cleansing of the intestinal canal and protection of the defensive properties of the blood itself.

PRESIDENT STOPS TO SEE GRANDSON

Makes Short Visit in Philadelphia With Daughter Before Going on to New York for Sea Journey.

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—President Wilson arrived in this city at 11 o'clock this afternoon for a brief visit to his daughter, Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, and his grandson, Woodrow Wilson Sayre. The president, accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, was driven from the station in an automobile a distance of six blocks to Jefferson hospital, where his daughter is a patient. The streets through which he passed were crowded by cheering crowds. Every precaution had been taken to safeguard the president and ropes were stretched to prevent the crowds from overflowing into the streets and impeding the passage of the automobiles carrying him and his attendants.

Secretary Tammie carried on the president's coat and hat and bore the official appointment of Comptroller of the Currency John Skilton Williams whose term expires today, and A. Mitchell Palmer, as attorney general, to succeed Thomas W. Gregory, whom resignation became effective yesterday.

The president will sign the commission to Palmer after his arrival.
